Our Creative
Working Process:

AGILE
We are using AGILE as a standard project management methodology for application development. We do have our internal tailored process for applying AGILE.

Development
We use standard programming languages only. And we build all libraries internally, without a framework that makes development easy and affects performance.

Testing
We apply functional testing by developers, unit and business functions testing by testers, and end-to-end testing. We do involve black-box testing for mobile applications as well.
